

AUTUM HARVEST PUNCH
MOCKTAIL **Or Cocktail**
INGREDIENTS

INSTRUCTIONS

In a tall pitcher mix the apple cider with the orange juice and lemonade. Set aside.
Cut the apples and the oranges and add them to the pitcher.
Mix in the maple syrup and add the rosemary sprigs.
Cover and take to the refrigerator for 2 hours or until chilled.
Add the sparkling water and mix.
Serve and enjoy.

NOTES

The longer you keep the punch in the fridge the bigger the punch of flavor. You can make it overnight to serve in the afternoon. You can also add 2 cinnamon sticks to make it spicier. Makes about (30) 4oz servings.

To enjoy as a cocktail rather than mocktail, this would pair nicely with several different types of alcohol, including spiced rum, white wine, bourbon, and brandy.

Hey Folks,

We hope everyone is doing well under the unprecedented circumstances our country and the world has been facing these past several months. We have been fortunate to have all remained healthy and no one close to us has been ill. We hope you have had a similar experience.

We had a spring newsletter in production in early March, and my wife and daughter were gathering up recipe and activity ideas for Easter and the beginning of the outdoor season. When everything started to unravel, they were disappointed they couldn't share the ideas they put together. Hopefully, they can use some of them next spring. It has also been challenging to develop this newsletter the way we normally do because, well, for one thing – there are not a lot of “events” for the bulletin board! Richelle especially likes researching and posting family and community-oriented events in the area that everyone can be on the look out for, and she like many others is frustrated by the lack of things to do.

To that end, if any of you have any events coming up in the next few months (Dec – March) that you would like us to advertise in our next newsletter, please feel free to let us know the who/what/when's of it all and we would certainly be glad to include it in our next issue. Anything of interest to others in your area is welcome. Clearly, we are kind of winging it here! This issue may be a little different than the others in content, but hopefully soon things will be a little closer to normal.

We want to say thanks to everyone who has had us out to do work since Feb/March. We were concerned about how this would affect business as we “sheltered in place” those first couple weeks. But since then we have had so many calls and we feel extremely lucky to have been working when so many did not have that chance. However, please know that the health and welfare of our customers, family and crew remains our top priority and we will continue to remain vigilant with safety precautions.

Finally, please help me in wishing my wife Richelle a happy 25th Anniversary! We celebrated the big day on September 1st. We weren't able to take that trip to Sedona or the California Redwoods like we'd hoped (thanks a lot, Coronavirus), but we did spend a few peaceful days in Lancaster County. Amazing how much there is to talk about when you don't have a bossy dog yelling at you 24/7! Other than that, we wish you a great autumn, hope you enjoy the cooler weather to come, and please, stay safe.

Sincerely,
Tim

A big shout-out here to our customers The Marcus Family!!

Dave and Sandy always find at least two projects for us around the Marcus home, pretty much every single year. Whether big or small, we always appreciate the work they provide us and our crew and we really appreciate having you guys as TP & C customers. And getting to spend time with our good buddy Jasper is always something to look forward to!

Thanks for everything you guys, you are the best!

Q & A

QUESTION: Can I use colors in photos I like to create color palettes for painting different rooms in my house?

ANSWER: Absolutely! One good example is on the Sherwin Williams' website. Under Color Tools, you can choose "Color Snap Visualizer". We used their visualizer for the web (they also have iPhone and Android versions) and made a couple examples.

We downloaded some autumn-themed photos we liked from the Pixabay website, which allows you to use royalty-free photos. One of the tools on the Color Snap Visualizer is to build your own color palette using a photo you upload from your computer or phone. Below you will see 2 examples we show of photos we used – the leather gloves/coffee mug/woods scene and the pumpkin/gourd/wooden crate still-life. Each time we uploaded a photo we were then given the option to choose colors that we liked out of the photo to add to our palette (up to 8). Each time you click in the photo it will show you which Sherwin Williams' paint color matches that particular color in the photo. Each time you add a color to your palette, you can also click on the color in the palette section below and get tons of information such as similar and complimentary colors, and previews of what these colors could look like on room samples provided on the Sherwin Williams website.

You can even upload photos of rooms from your own home and then use colors from the palette you created to see what the colors will look like in your rooms! We did not use that particular feature, but we did use some of the colors in our palettes to "paint" sections of the rooms from the examples they gave us. We included examples of some of these as well so you can see the palettes taken from the photos we chose and then see what some of the colors from those photos could look like when used in the example rooms.

Please keep in mind, especially when using photos of your own home, that this is really a rough idea of how this could look for you. Even though some of the examples they give you do show rooms in day and night lighting, there are so many other factors that determine what a color will look like. Ceiling heights, room size, what the walls are made from, trim size, types and amount of natural and artificial lighting, what sheen is used (flat, satin, gloss, etc.), styles of furniture you put in the room and how much furniture you use, and so on. All these things can make a huge difference. But this visualizer can be really helpful if say, you always wondered what blue walls and black trim would look like, and now you can see that you maybe think it looks awesome or hideous! At the very least it can help in the process of elimination of certain colors and combos, and it is a fun and creative way to spend an afternoon!
